- ❖ Intellectual Property [IP] refers to creations of the mind, which include, but not limited to inventions
- ❖ India is yet to recognize the full potential of IPR – generation/identification, preservation and protection.
- ❖ IP generators are researchers – students, faculty, scholars, and the like from academia and research institutions/organizations/programs.
- ❖ IP awareness has to be instilled and propagated within the professional research community –
- ❖ faculty, students, scholars and the like – who are the IP generators. IPR awareness is not just IP Law

Rationale:

A Research Proposal has several inter-related purposes. Writing an effective research proposal also trains you in a valuable skill required to operate effectively in both academia and industry after you graduate. You are presenting a reasonable thesis idea or hypothesis, the significance of which you have demonstrated by relating it to relevant literature in the field of enquiry. You are also proposing a methodology to investigate the problem with clear steps leading to a reasonable conclusion. Remember that you may eventually refine or even abandon your initial topic as your research progresses, but the proposal demonstrates that you are aware of the process of enquiry and experimentation. Finally, the research questions, significance and methodology that you write in your Research Proposal will help you refine your ethics research application.
